3. INTRODUCTION

Section 32 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, No. 108 of 1996 (“the Constitution”) provides:

(1) Everyone has the right of access to –

(a) any information held by the state; and

(b) Any information that is held by another person and that is required for the exercise or protection of any rights.

(2) National legislation must be enacted to give effect to this right, and may provide for reasonable measures to alleviate the administrative and financial burden on the state.

Section 32 of the Constitution affords everyone the right to access information held by the State or any other person. The Constitution requires that national legislation be enhanced to give effect to this right. The Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2 of 2000 (“PAIA”), gives effect to this constitutional right of access as required in terms of sub-section (2).

The Act provides that a person must be given access to any record of a private body if the record is required for the exercise of any right² and the procedural requirements relating to a request have been complied with. The Act applies to any recorded information, regardless of form or medium, under the control of the private body, and whether or not the private body created it.

Where a request is made in terms of PAIA, the private or public body to which the request is made is obliged to release the information, except where PAIA expressly provides that the information must not be released. The Act sets out the requisite procedural issues attached to such request.

Net1 has confirmed its status as a private body in terms of the definition in PAIA.

Overview of the Structure And Functions Of Net1

Net1 is a leading provider of payment solutions, transaction processing services and financial technology across multiple industries and in a number of emerging and developed economies.

Net1 have developed and market a comprehensive transaction processing solution that encompasses their smart card-based alternative payment system for the unbanked and under-banked populations of developing economies and for mobile transaction channels. Net1's market-leading system can enable the billions of people globally who generally have limited or no access to a bank account to enter affordably into electronic transactions with each other, government agencies, employers, merchants and other financial service providers.

Our universal electronic payment system, or UEPS, and UEPS/ EMV derivative discussed below, uses biometrically secure smart cards that operate in real-time but offline, unlike traditional payment systems offered by major banking institutions that require immediate access through a communications network to a centralized computer. This offline capability means that users of our system can conduct transactions at any time with other card holders in even the most remote areas so long as a smart card reader, which is often portable and battery powered, is available. Our off-line systems also offer the highest level of availability and affordability by removing any elements that are costly and are prone to outages. Our latest version of the UEPS technology has been certified by the EuroPay, MasterCard and Visa global standard, or EMV, which facilitates our traditionally proprietary UEPS system to interoperate with the global EMV standard and allows card holders to transact at any EMV-enabled point of sale terminal or automated teller machine, ATM. The UEPS/ EMV technology has been deployed on an extensive scale in South Africa through the issuance of MasterCard-branded UEPS/ EMV cards to our social welfare grant customers. In addition to effecting purchases, cash-backs and any form of payment, our system can be used for banking, healthcare management, international money transfers, voting and identification.

We also provide secure financial technology solutions and services, by offering transaction processing, financial and clinical risk management solutions to various industries. We have extensive expertise in secure online transaction processing, cryptography, mobile telephony, integrated circuit card (chip/smart card) technologies, and the design and provision of financial and value-added services to our cardholder base.

Our technology is widely used in South Africa today, where we process debit and credit card payment transactions on behalf of a wide range of retailers through our EasyPay system, process value-added services such as bill payments and prepaid airtime and electricity for the major bill issuers and local councils in South Africa, and provide mobile telephone top-up transactions for all of the South African mobile carriers. We provide financial inclusion services such as microloans, insurance, mobile transacting and prepaid utilities to our cardholder base.

We have expanded our card issuing and acquiring capabilities through the acquisition of Transact24 in Hong Kong. Our Masterpayment subsidiary in Germany provides value added payment services to online retailers across Europe. Our XeoHealth service provides funders and providers of healthcare in United States with an on-line real-time management system for healthcare transactions.

Our South African and Indian business units are responsible for the worldwide technical development and commercialization of our array of web and mobile applications and payment technologies, such as Mobile Virtual Card, or MVC, Chip and GSM licensing and Virtual Top Up, or VTU, and has deployed solutions in many countries, including South Africa, the United Kingdom, Namibia, Nigeria, Malawi, Cameroon, the Philippines, India and Colombia.
